Thursday, February 18th- School Board Meeting 7PM

Week of February 22nd- February Vacation!

Friday, March 4th- Visiting Author Tim Green

Language Arts:

Monday and Tuesday will be in-class workshops on our research into the countries you chose. We'll use this information on Wednesday to form some opinions about a fictional crisis. Then we'll debate on Thursday.

Wednesday- Country Research DUE

Math:

Today we will be studying for the Ratio Unit test. Everyone should have studied over the weekend to be ready with questions! The test will be Tuesday. Then we will start probability! One or two groups have seen their buildings printing. I will send a few people down at a time to see what is going on. You may not get to see your building printing, but you will see something! When they are all printed, we will put together our scale map of various areas of Manhattan! No homework this week.

SCIENCE:

This week in Science we will explore Newton's Laws as students film their first "episode" in their team video. Students will learn about balanced & unbalanced forces, inertia & friction, average and instantaneous speed, velocity and acceleration. Students will complete a lab in class Wednesday, with lab questions due Thursday.

HOMEWORK:

Due Thursday - Lab questions from Wednesday's lab

Social Studies:

This week we'll continue our lessons on the US Financial system. Your activity this week will focus on writing an argument. Also, you have your next set of bills due On March 1st (the day we return from break) There are copies of the Monthly Receipts in the "In Case You Lost It" folder in Mr. Whitney's room.

Friday- Research DUE
