Language Arts:

Our focus this week will be on our ongoing UN Security Council debate on the Syrian crisis. You are expected to come each day with the appropriate materials and having read any new drafts of your group's resolution. Whenever we wrap up the debate there will be a final reflection due. We'll also start discussing the Final Essay on Wednesday this week.

Math:

Happy π day! The probability test is postponed until later next week! We will finish with multi-stage probability and experimental vs theoretical probability this week and then spend some time studying next week before the test. Homework due on Thursday is on finding multi-stage probability using the multiplication rule.

Homework due on:

Thursday – Multi-stage HW due

SCIENCE:

This week in science we will tackle Newton's Third law of motion and do a thorough review of all three laws of motion. (Next week at some point there will be a quiz over Newton's three laws of motion!) Students will also practice using the speed and acceleration formulas while conferences happen in class. Speed & acceleration work not finished in class will be due Thursday.

Due Thursday - Two Speed & Acceleration sheets

Social Studies:

This week we'll begin looking at the concept of investment. We'll preview different types of investment that we will then do as part of our simulation.

Research due Friday
